The Department of Zoology along with the Eco Club of THK Jain College took up a great initiative to celebrate Van Mahotsav Week 2023 by setting up of earthen bird nests on the trees inside the sprawling green college campus. Total 15 students from semester IV of Department of Zoology along with the faculties of the department went around the bio-diverse campus, enriched with different species of birds, to site and locate trees habitable for birds to nest. The main purpose was to attract more birds in the campus and provide them supplementary nesting places. 10 bird nests were set high up on trees around the campus to make the birds feel safe and protected, away from any kind of human or animal interference.

The students enjoyed performing this activity and were happy to contribute to nature.
